(pre-made cards and templates can be downloaded for free at:

How to Play:

Set up your set 2 sets of 24 Tent Cards so each player can see their set but not see their opponents.

Each player chooses a Character Selection Card. This is the Fluff Who? character your opponent will try to pick by process of elimination.

The player with the most middle names will go first. If you happen to both have one middle name, the player who can make the best armpit fart, weirdest face, or tells the best embarrassing story will go first.

Each player will take turns asking questions about their opponent's mystery person.

In Fluff Who? you are not allowed to ask questions about appearances, for instance "Does your mystery person have a hat?" is not allowed in Fluff Who?, but instead you must ask things about the mystery person's personality traits, childhood, anything psychological.

Some suggested questions:

- Did your mystery person have a bad childhood?
- Is your mystery person a virgin?
- Does your mystery person like working on Wall Street?
- Did your mystery person eat something this morning that isn't agreeing with them now?
- Did your mystery person suck their thumb until they broke their jaw-playing hockey in eleventh grade and had their jaw wired shut?
- Is your mystery person convince that they were Joan of Arc in a previous life and therefore only eats cold food?
- Does your mystery person believe in the curative powers of gouda cheese?
- Is your mystery person afraid of all furry animals?
- Did your mystery person wet the bed until the age of 10/16/39?
- Is your mystery person a college drop out?
- Does your mystery person have an unhealthy obsession with terrepins?

(Thanks to Jam Pot and Cactus4Million from the Playgroundghosts.com Forum for question suggestions.)

Use your imagination. The crazier the questions the more entertaining results.

After each question asked, try to narrow down your guesses by taking away the tent cards of the Characters that don't fit the question answers.

How to Win:

You BOTH win if a player correctly guess their opponent's mystery person wins, since you had to be thinking alike to get that far! Or you BOTH loose...since you probably just wasted a good half hour of your life playing this game...
